The image shows a 'User Registration' dialog box for a service called 'Pluck'. The dialog has a title bar and a main content area. On the left side of the main area, there is a logo for 'Pluck' (a stylized 'X' inside a circle) and a list of reasons to register: 'Why register: Can't share. Can't sync. What can you do? More marketing stuff.' On the right side, there are several input fields and text prompts. The first is 'E-mail address:' with a text box containing 'busey@pluck.com'. Below this is a note: 'E-mail addresses must be verified before the account can become active. In future versions you will be able to register multiple e-mail addresses.' The next is 'Password:' with a text box containing ''. Below that is 'Confirm Password:' with a text box containing ''. A note below the password fields states: 'Passwords must be at least six characters in length and must contain at least one number or symbol.' Then there is a question 'Do you use multiple computers?' with two radio button options: 'Yes' and 'No'. A final note says: 'Select yes if you use multiple computers and you want Pluck to help you keep your web experience synchronized between them.' At the bottom of the dialog are three buttons: '< Back', 'Next >', and 'Cancel'. An arrow labeled '300' points to the 'Confirm Password' text box.
